Wild For Life Foundation, CA, August 18, 2014 – Wild for Life Foundation (WFLF) is thrilled to announce the arrival of fifteen Spanish wild horses to WFLF's Back to the Wild Sanctuary program. These majestic icons lost their native homeland and were in grave danger of going to slaughter, but were saved as part of a large scale grass roots rescue mission by the Wild for Life Foundation (WFLF).

"WFLF is honored to welcome these historic Mustangs into our sanctuary and nature program", says Katia

Louise, founder and executive director of WFLF. "The Wild for Life Foundation launched the WFLF Monero-Mustang Rescue Mission in April to help save over 130 Wild Horses." These wild horses are direct descendents of America's most historic Mustangs; Spanish horses, Indian ponies and early Calvary mounts that once roamed the western region of the U.S. in great numbers, but are now under extreme threat of extinction.

"With wild mustang herds across the west vanishing, the importance of protecting and preserving them, and providing the public the opportunity to view and experience wild mustangs in their natural environment is essential to the history and the future of our Nation," adds Ms. Louise. "Wild horses are scientifically recognized for restoring range-lands, boosting biodiversity and helping the return of a wider variety of plants and invertebrates to the lands where they roam.” Scientists and conservationists have indeed found that the re-introduction of wild equines to open lands provides a meaningful way to restore and sustain the natural environment and wildlife.

WFLF's wild horse conservation and nature program will be the last natural habitat sanctuary for approximately four dozen wild Spanish Mustangs whom are among the rarest and most threatened wild horse species in the country. As the remaining number of Wild Horses in the U.S. nears extinction, education and appreciation through the protection and observation of Wild Horses in natural sanctuary environments becomes tantamount to their survival as a species. America's Wild Horses cannot be reproduced once they are gone.

“We are truly grateful for the outpouring of collaborative, in-kind, and financial support which has helped to make this monumental rescue mission possible,” said Ms Louise. “We are filled with gratitude to local community members who have donated provisional use of their equine land and facilities for the Spanish ponies while WFLF's charity work continues to secure a permanent graze-able natural habitat sanctuary and preserve for its wild horse and nature program. In affiliation with WFLF's wild horse rescue and recovery program in Bonsall, CA, these Spanish horses will benefit for the interim while enjoying the gentle sloping pasture areas near Temecula. WFLF also extends our warm appreciation to Equine Voices, Firelight South, Equine Wellness and Valleyview Equine Rescue for their collaborative support in helping to make this mission a success.”

Caring citizens and community members are requested to show their support for the horses by sponsoring a Mustang or volunteering. A donation in any amount can help pay for vital provisions and veterinary medical care. 100% of each donation goes directly to help the horses, and will help assure that these vulnerable horses will never be at risk again.

“We would especially like to thank the ASPCA, Best Friends Animal Society, and the Onyx and Breezy Foundation for their generous support which has made a huge difference in helping to save many of these horses' lives.”

Continued support is crucial in order to cover the remainder of costs so that NO horses are left behind. Funds are needed to pay for transportation, vet and hay expenses. And as the last of the Spanish horses arrive and begin to settle in, the public is reminded that rescue is just the beginning of a long, dedicated endeavor to provide the best quality of life for these vulnerable and displaced victims. The WFLF charity relies solely on tax deductible donations from individuals, area civic clubs, organizations, and corporate philanthropic giving. Partnerships are crucial to helping the Wild For Life Foundation serve community enrichment through its multi-layered mission which includes preserving wildlife, preventing animal cruelty, environmental and educational initiatives, and therapeutic animal-human healing.

Breaking News

August 18, 2014, Los Angeles, CA

Wild For Life Foundation is thrilled to announce that a series of Saving America's Horses movie showings will soon be launched at theaters and local community venues nationwide. Fans and collaborating organizations will be able to take part and help drive the success of the showings through word-of-mouth, social media and ticket pre-sales. Dates and venues for each showing will be based on booking requests and availability.

Information on bookings and venues will soon be announced. Production team members are working behind the scenes to finalize preparations for this exciting development.

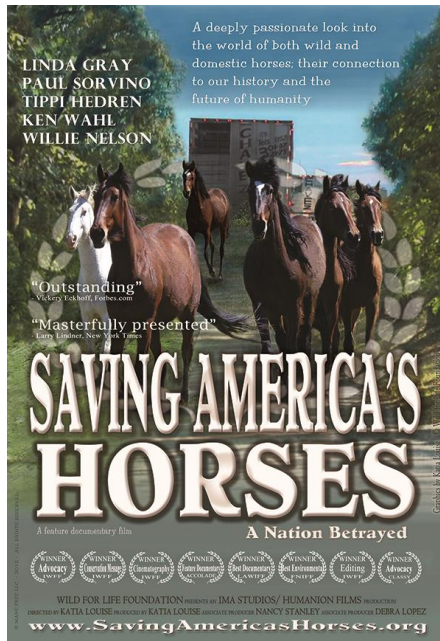

With YOUR continued support, funds are being raised to bring this extremely compelling film resource to more venues and to universities, schools and libraries and onto television/ cable and DVD. We continue to receive requests from people around the country to present SAVING AMERICA'S HORSES far and wide.

Supporters and fans will soon be given the option to add special meaning to their donations by designating that their support will aid in promotional costs, including live appearances, introductions, discussions, calls-to-action, and Q&A's.

Saving America's Horses continues to raise awareness and compel people to action. Although the defunding of the appropriations for USDA inspectors in U.S. horse slaughter plants is back in place, America's wild and domestic horses continue to face this gruesome fate after being sold at local auctions around the country, then shipped for slaughter in Canada and Mexico. No horse will be safe until federal protection is put into action.

SAVING AMERICA'S HORSES is a powerful podium with a dynamic reach to animal lovers worldwide. This intelligent exposé also reveals how the public has been misled by several government agencies and corporate interests that run over the laws that are supposed to protect the horses, people and the environment.

SAVING AMERICA'S HORSES was successfully released to theaters in LA and NYC in December.

Tax deductible donations have helped to make this groundbreaking milestone for the horses, a successful reality. SAVING AMERICA'S HORSES also qualified for Oscar consideration which brought the issues impacting America's horses into the mainstream.

Vital funds are being raised to put this powerful film in front of as many people as possible through public showings and on DVD. Your continued support can help make this happen.

The critic reviews for this film describe it as "A provocative rallying cry for justice and integrity" - THE QUAD CINEMA, NYC "Outstanding" - LA SPLASH MAGAZINE "Impassioned" - HOLLYWOOD REPORTER "Shocking statistics..." "A searing indictment" - VARIETY "Filled with facts" - NY TIMES "A broad and balanced spectrum of opinion through interviews with veterinarians, trainers, policymakers and celebrity horsemen including Paul Sorvino and Willie Nelson, among others" - ABOUT.COM "Unpacks a multi-layered conspiracy - fueled by a parade of misinformation- against the survival and proliferation of horses" - LA TIMES

Announcing the arrival of 7 Spanish Mustang mares and their foals to Equine Voices, Arizona

Green Valley, AZ, July 29, 2014 – Wild for Life Foundation (WFLF) is thrilled to announce the arrival of seven mares and their babies to Equine Voices Rescue and Sanctuary. These majestic icons were in grave danger of going to slaughter, but were saved as part of a collaborative grass roots rescue mission by the Wild for Life Foundation (WFLF).

"Equine Voices is honored to be part of WFLF's Monero Mustang Rescue Mission, a nationwide effort under the Wild for Life Foundation Safe Haven Rescue Partnership program," says Karen Pomroy, founder and executive director of Equine Voices. By helping to save these imperiled horses' lives, we will also be helping to build awareness for the need to protect America's wild horses from roundups and slaughter."

"We are proud to collaborate with Equine Voices as an official WFLF Safe Haven Rescue Partner," says Katia Louise, filmmaker, founder and president of the Wild For Life Foundation (WFLF). "It's an honor to welcome these Spanish Mustang mares and foals who will have this wonderful opportunity to heal through their transitional stay at Equine Voices." The foals, ages six weeks to three months in age, will build strength over the next 2-3 months in preparation of their final journey with their mothers to WFLF's Wild Horse Sanctuary program in California.

The Wild for Life Foundation recently launched the WFLF Monero-Mustang Rescue Mission, a large scale emergency operation established to help save over 130 Wild Horses. These Monero herd members are direct descendents of America's most historic Mustangs; Spanish horses, Indian ponies and early Calvary mounts that once roamed the western region of the U.S. in great numbers, but are now under extreme threat of extinction. They had lost their protected rangeland homes in New Mexico and became at risk of barbaric slaughter.

These mares and foals together with approximately twenty other Mustangs have been positively identified as the El Rito Spanish Mustangs; descendants of the Spanish horses brought to the Americas by Juan de Onate in the 1500's. These rare blood line Mustangs were part of the Monero Mustang conservation program founded by WFLF's Wild Horse Conservation Manager Sandi Claypoole. This special conservation program was established for their protection after they had narrowly escaped government eradication.

The WFLF Monero Mustangs Rescue Mission is a grass roots effort to save the lives of these endangered Mustangs. Donations in support of this effort are helping to provide feed, medical care, transport and safe haven placement for these survivors; to assure they will never be subject to roundup or slaughter again. Volunteer rescue team members have been working around the clock to truck in hay and water on a daily basis to keep them fed. The last of the herd members are being evacuated out of the temporary shelters in New Mexico where they had received emergency refuge.

"With wild mustang herds across the west vanishing, the importance of protecting and preserving them, and providing the public the opportunity to view and experience wild mustangs in their natural environment is essential to the history and the future of our Nation," adds Ms. Louise. "WFLF is poised to welcome these special rare breed Spanish Mustangs to its California sanctuary program where they will soon join the Red Rock Herd of sacred Navajo Mustangs."

Collaborative support and donations go a long way in helping to save and care for rescue horses in need. Community members have helped to pay for hay, veterinary medical care and transport, but continued in-kind support and donations are needed to see this mission through. The ASPCA donated $14,000 to help with hay, transport and veterinary care. Best Friends Animal Society donated $3,000 to help with Coggins tests and $1,500 to help pay for hay to feed the mares and foals during their stay in AZ.

The last of the Spanish Mustangs will be arriving to WFLF in California over the next few days. Community members are encouraged to help by sponsoring a Mustang in need. Donations will help keep their hay supplies replenished and pay for needed vet care. Through monthly gifts and one-time donations supporters can help save lives and secure ongoing quality care for these special beings. 100% of each donation goes directly to help the horses, and helps to assure that these vulnerable imperiled horses will never be at risk again.

WFLF partnered with the Monero Mustangs in April 2014, and has since successfully placed the majority of these imperiled horses into new sanctuary habitats. "Horses heal our hearts and they can heal the lands" adds Katia Louise. "As ambassadors for the horse nation these wild horses are helping to educate and show the world that the re-introduction of horses to America's rangelands, in truth can rejuvenate the environment."

Craig Downer, BOD Wild for Life Foundation, wildlife ecologist, and author of "The Wild Horse Conspiracy" points out that wild horses are a big benefit to the ecosystem. They help to create that very important soil substance known as Humus...which makes the soils more nutrient-rich, adhesive and more retentive to water. This aids greatly in increasing the moisture of soils and elevating the water tables. The manure of wild horses builds the soils and disperses the intact seeds of many species to a much greater degree than cattle and sheep. Wild free-roaming horses also greatly reduce the possibility of catastrophic fires which can sterilize the soils and destroy its seed banks.”
